

Book Voting Station

As developing a love of reading is incredibly important for our little ones, we make books part of our daily routine.

Each Monday, children can vote for the storybook which they would like to read at story time by placing a Lego block into the corresponding basket.

Later we discuss which option has the most votes, by comparing the number of Lego blocks in each basket.

British Values are embedded in the Early Years Foundation Stage curriculum and are actively promoted with young children. Providing an opportunity for our children to vote for a book to be read at story time is a great way to encourage independence and introduce the ideas of fairness, choices and democracy.
